"DON'T LIE TO YOUR WIFE"
OPERA HOUSE DECEMBER 27

Dave Lewis is actually funny! Stage folks give him this undisputed distinction. So just imagine how this comedy must act now that he has been supplied with such a funny song farce as "Don't Lie to Your Wife." Mr. Casad in a New York Herald newspaper.

man, who simply gathered together the funny sides of human nature that has come to his attention while covering assignments for the New York Herald, and placed them in a characteristic newspaperman's style in this song farce. The piece is down to the very minute scintillating as to dialogue, and full of keen wit and odd and laughable situations. It might be called a laugh in three acts, as the fun is fast and furious from the beginning to the end. Rowland and Clifford are supervising Mr. Lewis' career this season, and this firm has supplied the same brilliancy to the stage mounting of the production as featured this piece during its long run at the Whitney Opera House in Chicago last season.

"POLLY OF THE CIRCUS"
OPERA HOUSE JAN. 23

It is not often we are tempted to find fault with the producer of plays for being too generous, but that is the kind of play producer Frederic Thompson happens to be. He wants to give too much for the money. As a result of his extravagance he has made "Polly of the Circus" with pretty Ida St. Leon, a case of Polly and the Circus. There are not many people who would object to this, however. There may be some who will agree with us that "Polly" is so much more interesting and so much more important to the little drama of which she is a part than a hundred circuses could ever be, that the show scene should be eliminated. But probably there will be as many more who will enjoy the sight of a real lady bareback rider turning somersaults off the back of a real horse ambling patiently around the inside of a real ring and keeping time to the horn of a real circus tune. It is not often playgoers object to being offered too much entertainment, even though the extra measures prove a clear case of assault and battery with a poor drama as victim. "Polly of the Circus" is a pretty appealing story of hearts of the tried and true type, until the circus happens into it, then we have a three ring circus in full operation on the stage.

Among the many features of this play, "Polly of the Circus" which will be seen at the Opera House Jan. 23, are "Bingo" the celebrated thoroughbred Arabian horse, also clown, acrobats, bareback riders, ringmasters, aerial and horizontal bar acts and a real circus on the stage.

This is the same production that appeared at the Liberty theatre for one solid year.

NEVER DREW AN INFERENCE

Coachman, However, Thought the Horses Could Draw One if the Traces Held.

A young clergyman who had delivered a discourse in the place of an aged brother minister requested the opinion of the latter respecting it. "Oh," said he, plainly, "many of the words you used were beyond the comprehension of your hearers. Thus, for instance, the word 'inference'—perhaps not half of my parishioners understand its meaning."

"Inference, inference!" exclaimed the other. "Why, everyone must understand that."

"I think you will find it not so. There's my clerk, now. He prides himself upon his learning, and, in truth, is very intelligent. We will try him. Zachariah, come hither. Zachariah, my brother here wishes you to draw an inference; can you do it?"

"Why, I am pretty strong, but John, the coachman, is stronger than I. I'll ask him."

Zachariah went out for a few moments to look after the coachman, and returned.

"John says he never tried to draw an inference, sir; but he reckons his horses can draw anything that the traces will hold!"

PHILANDER AND THE ROSE

Little Joke That Clever Woman Played on a Male Philr at Coronado Beach.

All that you have to do to bring me to a certain stock and bond broker down among the marts of Mammon is to wear a red rose.

The stock and bond broker has a reputation of being quite a philanderer—a "devil among the women," as it were. And on a recent visit to Coronado he was looking about with a view to conquest—looking about so obviously that a clever woman who was a guest at the hotel determined upon a little plan.

She dropped him a note, intimating that she would like to make his acquaintance. He answered the note with celerity. He wasted no time. He asked her if she would have dinner with him in San Diego that evening. "And, that I may know you accept," he concluded, "will you wear a red rose in the dining room at lunch time tomorrow?"

At the appointed lunch time every woman in the big dining room wore a red rose!

The stock and bond broker left Coronado on the first train. Oh, you red rose!—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Turtle Story.

While excavating for a cellar a few days ago at Bloomfield, N. J., the workmen came upon the skeleton of a horse and two live turtles eight feet underground. The place was formerly a mill pond, and was filled with dirt in 1850. It is supposed the horse was in the pond at the time of the filling and that the turtles consumed the flesh of the animal.

WOMEN IN NEWSPAPER WORK

Edna Ferber, Who Has Tried It Herself, Tells About Their Life as Reporters.

The unusual life of the newspaperman has been diversely set forth by numerous writers, but the experiences of the newspaperwoman, the writer of "sob stories" and "human interest views," has seldom been told so well as by Miss Edna Ferber, herself a reporter of wide experience, who has made it the background for her new novel, "Dawn O'Hara." Miss Ferber makes Dawn, her journalistic heroine, say regarding her own craft:

"If a woman reporter were to burst into tears every time she saw something to weep over she'd be going about with a red nose and puffy eyelids half the time. Scarcely a day passes that does not bring her face to face with human suffering in some form. Not only must she see these things, but she must write of them so that those who read can also see them. And just because she does not wall and tear her hair and faint she popularly is supposed to be a flinty, cigarette-smoking creature who rambles up and down the land, seeking whom she may rend with her pen and gazing dry-eyed upon scenes of horrid bloodshed."

Freak Shoes.

A shoe manufacturer in referring to the increase in job lot shoe merchants said: "It is a peculiar situation when a wholesaler of jobs exclusively is enabled to purchase whole carloads of good staple shoes at a tremendous discount from actual cost to the shoe manufacturer, and that is just exactly what is being done."

"It is not to be understood that these job lot purchases are composed of rejected shoes or that they are of odd sizes or anything of the sort. They are regular factory lines of good staple shoes in full sizes and are sold at a great sacrifice because so many fads and innovations have crept in that good staple shoes remain in wholesalers' hands. Surely there is something radically wrong and out of joint in the shoe business when such conditions exist."—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

His Mother's Visit.

The other day, on an electric car, a friend said softly: "I want you to notice the man two seats in front; he evidently has his mother down to the city on a little trip and is showing her the sights. His care of her is something beautiful." It was a sight to make us wish that every mother might be blessed with just such a son, or with a kind, loving daughter, who, when skies are blue and are soft and balmy, would see that the dear parents are taken into the midst of new scenes, that a welcome invigorating change might be enjoyed, and a little of the care and thoughtfulness of past years be given back in a direction where it is so richly deserved.—St. Louis Star.

TOMB OF SEMINOLE CHIEF

Traveler Tells of Amusing Inscription On an Old Monument in St. Augustine, Fla.

"Recently," said a traveler, "while in the old town of St. Augustine, Fla., my attention was attracted by a magnificent specimen of a hibiscus tree in full blossom. It was growing in the rear of a drug store on the southwest corner of Orange and Cordova streets. 'Stopping for a moment to admire it I was surprised to discover beneath its branches an old stone monument, evidently of great antiquity, almost completely concealed by its blossoms. 'The monument bears no date, and persistent inquiry failed to elicit any information as to its origin or history. 'It is about four feet in height, and bears the following epitaph on its side:

"NOTES
This worthy elaborate Pile
is erected in memory of Tolomato
A seminoles ingins chief
Whose wigwag stood on
This spot and surroundings
Wee cheris his memory
As he was a good hearted chief
He wood knot take your scalp without you begged him to do so, or pade him sum munny
He allways aked
more like a christum gentleman than a savage ingins
Let him R. I. P."

In the Misfit Male Region.
"I believe," said a Billville author, "that if we finally reach Paradise we'll worry about having to fly too high and sing too often, and some folks will complain about the streets of gold because the hard pavement may hurt their feet."—Atlanta Constitution.
